

Carlos Camargo de Colón

BOARD MEMBER

GASMIG

GAS
MIG

Carlos Camargo de Colón is an accomplished Company Director with over 25 years in both the public and private sectors, with a particular focus on energy and agribusiness.

He is currently a board member of Gasmig, the gas pipeline distribution company of the state of Minas Gerais in Brazil. Prior to this role he was CEO and Board Member of Sulgás, the gas pipeline distribution company of the state of Rio Grande do Sul, where he led the privatization process of that Company until its acquisition by Compass Gas e Energia. He was also a non-executive director of Bioceres Crop Solutions, a fully integrated provider of crop productivity solutions based in Argentina and listed on NASDAQ.

Carlos has extensive international experience and held positions in Argentina, Brazil, the USA, the United Kingdom and the United Arab Emirates.

Earlier in his career, he was an investment banker at UBS Investment Bank and Morgan Stanley. He received a bachelor's degree in history from Columbia University in the City of New York.

Carlos is also a board member of Fundação Cruz de Malta, a Brazilian based charity that assists disadvantaged children and young mothers, and a board member of British Friends of Campos, a UK based charity with a focus on education.